On Saturday, November 21, 2016, God with his great and infinite wisdom, gently retored the sight of an angel that could not see, our dear sister and mother. Clemmie Faye Hayworth was born August 18, 1955, in Bedford County to Margret and John Brown and Bobby Hayworth. She was a woman of power, strength, and faith. She would not let anything keep her from being normal as the rest, even though she could not see. She would play games as any other, like hide and seek.... Even in your deepest imagination you would think, she's not going to find you! Out of nowhere, she appears in front of you, chasing you, so yes she was like no other. She would dial phones, count money, and know who you are by your voice, touch, and footsteps. She was a lover of music and good times. she had a gift of touch and sight that only she could see. So who's to say that she could never see...? In her vision of faith, comes by hearing and not by sight.

Preceding her in death were brothers, Vernon Brown and John W., Brown, and a sister, Margaret "Margo" Brown.

She leaves to cherish her memories, two children, Leslie Hayworth Young and a son, Anthony Hayworth; four grandchildren, Genesha Hayworth, Erial Young, Lakota Young, and Sequoyah Young; one great grandchild; also left are her brothers, Geary (Nicole) Brown, Chunky (E. Black) Brown; sister, Tammy Williams; elders: two aunts, Louise Brown, Mary Lee Harris; an uncle, Joe (Pat) Brown; a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and many friends.

“ Leslie and Anthony I in complete SHOCK over this. I loved Faye more than a little bit. She was always a character and kept me laughing all the time from morning til night. I love the both of you very much as well as the rest of the fam. My thoughts will with you and my prayers will go up for you. I only wish I was able to be there to tell you face to face how much I care about you. Faye was TRULY a one of a kind, never to be duplicated. I know sadness will turn to gladness one day.
