“ I was reminded today of how blessed I am to come from a large, strong, and crazy family. Our dad taught us that family is the only thing that matters. We cry together. We fight with each other. But the best thing that we do is love each other. We fight for each other. David was our strength. He kept us together and he never let us forget our dad's lesson of family. David always made sure that nobody took advantage of his sisters.
