“ I remember the first time I showed you the ocean and the beach. The expression on your face was a sight to behold. Immediately you ran up and started collecting shells. I told you that the Scallop shell was my favorite and you picked some from your pile and we admired their unique shape and color. Soon it was time to go however you kept on collecting more shells. Sea Street Beach will never be the same without you and I walking side by side and leaving our footprints!!!
